JUNE & JULY

UNTIL JUNE 17

RETAIL: SERAPHINA POP-UP

Lifestyle label Seraphina has opened a pop-up shop on the King's Road, offering fresh and colourful hand-block prints for adults and children, including resortwear, beachwear and loungewear. There's also a selection of mix-and-match cushions and quilts for the nursery and bedroom. The shop is open everyday from 10am–6pm.

UNTIL JUNE 17

ART: RADO KIROV

Bulgarian artist Rado Kirov developed an interest in metal art at an early age. He has created a unique technique of manipulating a sheet of stainless steel by hand, using the properties of the metal to create striking three-dimensional surfaces that dynamically mirror their surroundings and draw the observer into the magic of their reflections.

JUNE 16–NOVEMBER 4

EXHIBITION: FRIDA KAHLO: MAKING HER SELF UP

This must-see exhibition will present an extraordinary collection of personal possessions, artefacts and clothes belonging to the iconic Mexican artist Frida Kahlo. Locked away for 50 years following her death, items on display will include Frida's cosmetics, jewellery, letters and photographs, as well as the prosthetic leg she wore due to losing a limb to gangrene and a Guatemalan cotton coat.

Tickets £15, V&A, Cromwell Road.

T: 020 7942 2000, vam.ac.uk

JUNE 9–10

GARDENS: OPEN GARDEN SQUARES WEEKEND

More than 200 of London's green (and mostly private) spaces will open their gates to the public for the weekend. In Chelsea, Carlyle's House, Markham Square and Paultons Square are taking part, as well as Cadogan Place north and south gardens. The latter will offer live jazz music, food and drink, and David Wynn sculptures will be on display.

Tickets £15. T: 020 7839 3969, opensquares.org

JUNE 7–30

ART: DAVID GROSSMANN – HAVEN

The landscapes of David Grossmann are instantly recognisable – a quiet world in which deer and woodland birds calmly cross our field of vision, seemingly undisturbed by the presence of the viewer or artist. For this young American painter, both nature and art represent a place of peace, beauty and connection, and a refuge from our increasingly fast-paced lives.

SUMMER FETE: FUN FOR ALL AGES

The annual summer fete is returning to Chelsea on Saturday June 23, with festivities centred around Duke of York Square and the foodie hub of Pavilion Road.

With a quintessentially British garden-party atmosphere the Chelsea Physic Garden, will be displaying a range of locally grown flowers and plants, while Cadogan Hall will be programming live music from a stage in each location.

In addition to the weekly farmers' market, Partridges will be selling hampers and drinks, which can be enjoyed on the Duke of York Square field, with picnic chairs and lawn games provided for the occasion.

The National Army Museum will be hosting all sorts of camouflage-themed arts and crafts activities, as well as lots of fun competitions.

Entertainment stalls, including splat the rat, wet-sponge stocks and a human fruit machine, will get the games started, while little ones will be kept busy with face painting throughout the day. From 2–4pm legendary children's entertainers Sharky and George will be getting the kids active in Duke of York Square, with space-hopper racing, tug-of-war, water-bomb dodgeball and musical statues. The giant bubble-blasting competition at 2pm is not to be missed!

There will also be plenty of food and drink on Pavilion Road. The street party will include a barbecue and rosé wine tastings at Pavilion Wine, to name just a couple of the foodie attractions on offer.

Saturday June 23, 10am - 5pm.

LUXURY BAG BRAND ETHAN K

has opened a by-appointment-only bespoke boutique on Sloane Street, offering clients an unparalleled opportunity for personalisation.

Once customers have selected their preferred design, they can choose from a wide range of exotic skins – from Zimbabwean Niloticus and Australian Porosus crocodile to python, lizard and ostrich – in an assortment of vibrant colours. Further alterations to the clasps, thread colour and the size of the bag, handles, pockets and interior are also available.

“I founded my company on the basis that luxury had become too mass market and I wanted to rekindle the essence of couture and exclusivity in the world of luxury and bags,” says founder and creative director Ethan Koh. 186 Sloane Street

THE JUMEIRAH LOWNDES HOTEL has relaunched its summer terrace in tribute to Mexican artist Frida Kahlo, celebrating the V&A's Making Her Self Up exhibition, taking place this summer.

Alongside the barbecue-style menu will be Mexican-inspired food and drink menus, featuring dishes of fish tacos, chicken fajita quesadillas and nachos, and exotic concoctions including a Patrón tequila margarita and citrusy Citrónge Paloma. Guests spending more than £30 each and quoting “Frida Kahlo” can receive complimentary exhibition tickets, subject to availability.

THE V&A is set to open the first phase of its Photographic Centre this October – more than doubling the space dedicated to photography at the museum.

The Photographic Centre will open with examples of the world's first photographic experiments, iconic shots from the 20th century's most celebrated image-makers, including Alfred Stieglitz, Man Ray and Cecil Beaton, and recent acquisitions by Linda McCartney, gifted to the V&A by Paul McCartney. Works by contemporary photographers such as Cindy Sherman and Martin Parr, and new commissions by Thomas Ruff, will also feature.

The contemporary design by David Kohn Architects includes a 'dark tent' – a multimedia projection and lecture space inspired by 19th-century travelling darkrooms – and an installation of over 150 cameras. Cromwell Road

COINCIDING WITH the Royal Wedding and the start of the wedding season, lingerie brand La Perla has launched a new bridal collection. It features elegant silk satin, gossamer-thin tulle and embroidered lingerie and nightwear, Lycra garments for a smooth silhouette and a range of blue pieces to honour the bridal custom.

La Perla is also offering a range of bridal services: private shopping and fitting, a made-to-measure service and in-home and hotel consultation.

SAMUEL FRENCH, the much-loved Fitzrovia bookshop, has relocated to the Royal Court Theatre's Balcony Bar.

Open Monday to Saturday, 11am–5.30pm, the shop will sell works including those of Royal Court playwrights alongside snacks and refreshments. Designed by Haworth Tompkins, who oversaw the redevelopment of the Royal Court in 2000, and Citizens Design Bureau who refurbished the Bar and Kitchen in recent years, the bookshop will also play host to guest speakers.

"This is an exciting and significant new partnership," says Lucy Davies, executive producer at the Royal Court. "We are delighted that Samuel French's legendary bookshop can move into a new era with us here in Sloane Square."

CONTEMPORARY

WOMENSWEAR trade show Scoop is popping up again at the Saatchi Gallery next month, with over 250 established and emerging international designers showing off their latest collections to fashion buyers and industry experts.

Taking place from July 22–24, Scoop was founded in 2011 by Karen Radley, who previously managed designer company Quorum.

Several local retailers will be showcasing their wares at the event, including Trilogy, Baar & Bass, Goat and former Sloane Street store Shanghai Tang.

THE IVY CHELSEA GARDEN has partnered with Jenny Packham to create a floral installation celebrating British Summer Time and the brand's 30th anniversary.

The al-fresco installation features English garden roses, peonies and lemon mimosas transitioning from white to cream to yellow – inspired by Packham's iconic ombré pieces. The British designer has also created six upholstered cushions to match the blooms, while the restaurant has come up with two floral cocktails to complete the experience.

Community News / June

THE MEMBERS OF CHELSEA ART SOCIETY are celebrating the inspiration found in Chelsea with an exhibition focusing on the area's bustling streets, leafy squares and the river.

The display of eclectic works, entitled An Artist's Chelsea, runs from June 19–24 at a special pop-up gallery, located at 340 King's Road. One lucky chosen artist will be awarded the William Sloane Medal in recognition of their work.

Although the number of practising artists in Chelsea has diminished since its bohemian heyday, many of the 100 or so Society members have lived, worked or trained in Chelsea.

THE ROYAL BOROUGH OF KENSINGTON AND CHELSEA recently commemorated First World War hero Julian Gribble VC, a century after the end of the war.

The Mayor of Kensington and Chelsea, Councillor Marie-Therese Rossi, unveiled a special paving stone on Sloane Square to commemorate Gribble's bravery in the Kaiser's Battle, for which he received the Victoria Cross – the highest award of the United Kingdom's honours system.

Captain Gribble was taken prisoner by German forces after his show of gallantry and died from Spanish influenza just days after the Armistice in November 1918.

KING'S ROAD BRAND BAAR & BASS has partnered with the Wild at Heart Foundation, which helps reduce the world's 600 million stray dog population, to make four of the Simeon Farrar x Black Score-designed jumpers available in store, featuring dog-friendly slogans including "I Believe in Dog" and "Adopt Don't Shop". All proceeds from sales will be donated to the charity.
336 King's Road

THE KENSINGTON & CHELSEA FOUNDATION, the independent charity set up in 2008 working to tackle inequalities in the community, has renewed its Friends membership and is inviting local residents to sign up.

The K&C Foundation Friends Scheme is vital to the charity's existence, supporting running costs that enable it to ensure that all charitable donations received go directly to local charities and groups.

The Royal Borough of Kensington and Chelsea has the greatest gap between wealth and opportunity of any area in the UK; last year, the foundation raised more than £500,000, supporting 61 charities in the process. To join, visit thekandcfoundation.com/donate.

THE ROYAL HOSPITAL CHELSEA recently celebrated National Care Home Open Day 2018, opening its dedicated care facility, the Margaret Thatcher Infirmary.

Now in its sixth year, Care Home Open Day looks to celebrate one of our most valued services, and the older and vulnerable people they seek to help. The theme for this year's event was 'Linking Communities' – for which the Royal Hospital Chelsea is well placed, being part of both the Army and care communities.

Specially invited guests and dignitaries attended guided tours, while guests enjoyed swing dancing and pottery workshops alongside outdoor games and live music.

HOLY TRINITY CHURCH is set to host the Summer Collection concert, which sees the John Lewis Partnership Music Society present performances from the John Lewis Partnership Cavendish Singers and Ensemble and the Bolton Music Service Singers, with works including Hadyn's Insanae et vanae curae, Wagner's 'Siegfried Idyll' and Rutter's Magnificat, plus a selection of choral favourites.

The concert takes place on June 30 at 7.30pm. Tickets are priced at £7 for under-14s and John Lewis Partnership Society members and £10 for all other guests.

TOM STOGDON

Tom Stogdon was born into a family of greengrocers in Bloomsbury in 1964 and worked in the fruit trade until 1998. His first foray into sculpture saw him making elaborate pieces using fruit and vegetables, which were gradually replaced with slate and metal.

His experiments with stone and the wearing influence of water have dictated the direction of his work in the last few years. His pieces vary in size and stature, but repetition and movement are recurring themes, always coupled with a strong sense of calm.

Tom, who was elected as an associate of the Royal British Society of Sculptors in 2012, uses a combination of found and worked materials. He uses what is best described as an abrasive “washing machine” to give different shapes and textures to the stone.

TIM WRIGHT, DOLLY THOMPSETT AND KATE TEDMAN

This exhibition brings together works by three renowned English artists.

Tim Wright's practice has developed along two strands: portrait and figure painting. His portraits are concerned with capturing likeness and expressing personality, while the figure paintings allow the exploration of broader themes.

Since graduating with a PhD in fine art, Dolly Thompsonsett has had many solo shows at prestigious London galleries. Her works are rooted in an intensely absorbed activity of image-making and evoke a world of fantastic reverie.

Meanwhile Kate Tedman has always been intrigued by the concept of collaboration and continues to challenge the traditional cult of identity of the solo artist. Her paintings draw inspiration from the outsider and the self-taught art movement.

THE LUXE LEISUREWEAR BRAND LUCAS HUGH HAS JUST OPENED ITS FIRST EVER STORE IN CHELSEA. CALLY SQUIRES SPEAKS TO CO-CEOS ANJHE MULES AND JASON MARCUS ABOUT THEIR NEW KING'S ROAD BOUTIQUE

Fitness meets Fashion

WHEN DID LUCAS HUGH LAUNCH?

A: I founded the brand 10 years ago, and Jason joined about six years ago. He's been integral in growing the company from what it was then, to where it is now. We try to have rules for working together, but the reality is that some of it does come home at the end of the day.

WHEN DID THE STORE OPEN?

A: On the first day of Chelsea in Bloom. We were so surprised that we won the award, but it was such an honour. We really made sure our window represented Lucas Hugh in terms of being dynamic and futuristic, and our take on Summer of Love was inspired by a psychedelic Pink Floyd album cover. Our partners, florist Rebel Rebel, were great.

WHY CHELSEA?

A: We chose Chelsea for our first standalone store after surveying our customers, and finding that the majority of them lived around here. The positioning of where we are means we get a lot of international clients too. And it's nice being near all the high fashion boutiques, as well as art galleries and gyms. There is also a real community feel here, which means we can get to know our customers really well.

WHAT IS A TYPICAL DAY LIKE?

J: We have a two year old girl and a three month old boy so we're up at 5.30am tending to their needs. Then I might go for a run or to the gym before getting to the office in Notting Hill for 8am. Now the store has opened we find ourselves back and forth to Chelsea quite a lot too, delivering stock or training staff. I love to cook, and will do almond milk with quinoa, oats and maple syrup for breakfast. For dinner I make healthy food like grilled salmon or gluten and dairy-free lamb meatballs. What we eat fuels the mind as well as the body, and allows us to get through the day.

WHERE DO YOU WORKOUT?

A: I have been going to a local trainer, Dalton Wong, for many years. I also love classes at Heartcore and Barrecore, and I can't wait to try KXU.

J: I run in the park a lot, but I'd love to start doing some classes at KXU.

HOW IMPORTANT IS IT FOR ACTIVEWEAR TO BE STYLISH?

A: Nowadays, and especially in Chelsea, people want clothes they can wear for workouts and transition to go out after. Our leggings can be worn with a shirt and some of the tanks can be worn with a skirt. Our bodysuits too transition really nicely to ready-to-wear.

WE REALLY MADE SURE
OUR WINDOW
REPRESENTED
TERMS OF BEING DYNAMIC AND FUTURISTIC

ARE THE FABRICS STILL TECHNICAL?

A: Absolutely, the foundation of everything we do is making sure our designs perform. So using moisture-wicking and breathable fabric, a lot of high visibility detailing so you can be seen at night and all the garments are laser cut and bonded so they're seamless. Secondary to that is making sure they are stylish enough to wear through the day.

WHO INFLUENCES YOU IN FASHION?

A: I do get inspired a lot by technical sport and streetwear but I also love a lot of high fashion brands like Givenchy and Celine. I watch all the runway shows.

WHAT LED YOU TO LUCAS HUGH?

J: I studied business management and strategy and had experience working in that industry.

A: I studied fashion and actually had a swimwear brand in New Zealand before leaving to work for Marc Jacobs. I think it's important to recognise that we need a high performance swimsuit, so that is in development right now.

HAS LEADING ARTISANS IN HEALTH, BEAUTY, FOOD AND
FITNESS WHO CAN HELP YOU FEEL YOUR VERY BEST

FITNESS

KXU

IF YOU'RE STILL carrying the effects of your winter sloth and want to get fit fast, KXU can help. The Pavilion Road gym can recommend the classes that will help you gain the quickest results. For instance, for high-intensity interval exercise try Meta-KX, or Hiit & Run – an adrenalin-producing workout combining treadmill and strength training with low lights and a killer playlist. Both help you oxidise fat and build lean muscle, and support well-regulated insulin and blood glucose.

Cardiovascular endurance exercise training, meanwhile, can help your body use stored fat as fuel and boost heart health and your own antioxidants. U-Cycle & Nok Out are great classes for this.

KXU's sessions are pay-as-you-go and priced on a sliding scale from £19 if you book 20 to £24 if you book one, so it pays to commit. Personal trainers can also help you target the areas that need the most work. You can even keep your refuelling on track with healthy breakfasts and superfood salad bowls from the nutrition bar.

At the Medispa you can get summer-ready with laser hair removal, or body-contouring treatments like a Body Shock Wrap (55 minutes, £140) or a lymphatic pressotherapy suit (30 minutes, £105).

You can also cool things right down with low-temperature cryotherapy, particularly good for muscle repair – something to consider if you've been overdoing things on the tennis court.

FOOD

GRANGER & CO.

GET YOUR VITAMINS C and D at Granger & Co. where a courtyard seating up to 26 means you can graze al fresco on the light summer menu. New salads include a turmeric-spiced chicken with slaw and lime and coconut dressing. There's also a new tuna tartare with pickled daikon, pink peppercorns and coriander cress, while grilled squid is teamed with fennel, rocket, chilli and lemon. For a light pasta try the orecchiette with broccoli, spinach and lemon. T: 020 3848 1060, grangerandco.com

WULF & LAMB

THE PERFECT DESTINATION for healthy eating is vegan café Wulf & Lamb. For the warmer months it has a new spring salad made with fennel, mango, savoury green pea crumbs and seasonal greens. Summer's seasonal side salad (pictured right) mixes watercress, green peas, shaved courgette and pine nuts in a balsamic vinaigrette. It's open all day so you can start with favourites like the Full Wulf – potato layer cake with borlotti bean ragout, scrambled ackee and toasted sourdough – then move on to sandwiches, wraps, creative veg-based burgers or an open burrito topped with cashew sour cream. T: 020 3948 5999, wulfandlamb.com

BREAD AHEAD

FEW AROMAS give a greater sense of wellbeing than that of baking bread, and you can learn how to create your own this summer at Bread Ahead's Pavilion Road cookery school.

If you're eating lighter, try the Flatbread Workshop, including thin and airy chapattis and roasted rye flatbread, on June 16 and 22 and July 27, costing £80.

There are also summer slots for Introduction to Sourdough, Introductions to French and Italian Baking and a Pizza Workshop (each £80 per person for a half day) and Bread Bakery, covering ciabatta, soda bread, focaccia and a white country loaf (£160 for a full day). T: 020 7403 5444, breadahead.com

THE ROASTING PARTY

CUTTING DOWN on caffeine? You can still enjoy a decent coffee thanks to The Roasting Party's Swiss water decaf. The whole bean product is from £9.50 for 250g or £34 a kilo, or you can buy a cup to take away. T: 01962 867 377, theroastingparty.co.uk

PROVENANCE

SUMMER WOULDN'T BE COMPLETE without a barbeque or two, and butcher Provenance has lots of options for keen grillers.

For a tender cut, staff recommend Iberico Secreto from Andalusia in Spain. This shoulder cut of pork (£32.99 per kg) has extremely high levels of marbling, making it an easy choice for the BBQ.

Likewise the shop's Pavilion Road burgers (£3.99 each) are made from 45-day dry age beef from Thirsk in North Yorkshire, and are a garden party staple.

LONDON

TO COMPLEMENT NEIGHBOUR

NATOORA'S fresh vegetables, London Cheesemongers recommend three cheeses to mix into light summer dishes .

Try Sleightlett (£7.50 each) a very young goats milk cheese made by Mary Holbrook in Somerset. It's often no more than a week old when it reaches the shop on Pavilion Road and it's citrus flavor means it's especially good with root vegetables, like beetroot and carrot.

If you're looking for a speedy salad, London Cheesemonger's Mozzarella di Bufala (£8.75 for 250g) is delivered to Chelsea from Naples twice a week, and tastes great simply torn and tossed with tomatoes.

New to the store is a pecorino from Le Marche in central Italy, San Giorgio (£50.45 per kilo).

It's semi-mature, with a creamy layer of breakdown under the rind, making it ideal for grating over a salad of shaved fennel.

PAVILION WINE

SUNSHINE MEANS ROSÉ, and Pavilion Wine offers bottles to buy and enjoy at home or to sip by the glass in the upstairs tasting room, or even al fresco on Pavilion Road itself.

BEAUTY

COSMETICS À LA CARTE

GIVE YOUR SKIN a boost and create a bit of summer radiance with the new Superglow Serum from Cosmetics à la Carte with marine algae, Vitamin C and pro-collagen peptides. It's designed to create tauter skin and a brighter, rejuvenated complexion (£59 for 30g). If it's a dewy glow you're after, add the Complexion Enhancer, an all-in-one hydrator, brightener, primer and colour corrector with silky essences. It comes in three shades: Nudekiss, Rosekiss and Sunkiss (£40 for 30g). You can also protect your lips in style with the shimmery, tinted and waterproof Sunbalm SPF in Gilt or Rose (£26).

SALON SLOANE

THIS SUMMER, if you want to keep your hair healthy while growing your tresses, visit Salon Sloane's Ivan Ferreira for a 'no hair cut hair cut'. This invisible layering technique cuts away split ends without compromising the length.

For an effortless day or night look in under 20 minutes, get the Spin Dry from Italian hair guru Giovanni Di Gesu. It's a modern take on the 1970s blow-dry, with the ends of your hair spun round and down to create glamorous relaxed waves.

The salon also has tips for ensuring your hair's wellbeing in the sun: use a hat or an SPF product, dial down the heat on styling appliances and invest in a hair mask like Revlon's Hydro Nutritive.

Heads together

HEAD OF CHRIST CHURCH SCHOOL AVIS HAWKINS ON CREATING COMMUNITY IN THE CLASSROOM. AS TOLD TO CALLY SQUIRES

“I arrived at the school in 2000 as deputy head and became head in 2009. I have a psychology background originally and was a teacher for seven years before joining Christ Church, in two quite challenging schools in Lewisham. But I wouldn’t change that experience, because that first bit of my career really helped me find out what was and wasn’t important to focus on in a school.

We have 210 four- to 11-year-olds, so it’s quite a small school but a really tight community. We have quite a few families from Chelsea and Battersea, but also beyond because we have special-needs children who travel a long way.

The church is very much at the heart of it, but what is brilliant about our church is that it’s really about values rather than being evangelical. There is a really lovely sense of belonging, but it’s open to all.

We live by the value of forgiveness, so that children aren’t labelled and they can make a fresh start every single day. Our school is a really happy place, which is what a school should be. Children learn best if they’re really motivated and excited about what is going on.

Year Three at the moment are preparing a pop-up restaurant for their parents. So their literacy is all linked to the recipes and the band. My drama teacher is away at the moment because she's putting on a play in Ireland, but it's worth it because when she comes back she'll give a sense of that experience to the children.

We had chickens, but unfortunately they got eaten by a fox. We do have a school dog, Poppy, who has been here for five years. My deputy head George bought her specially to be brought into the school, and because we have children with autism and ADHD, they do often need time out, and one of the things that helps them is going for a walk with Poppy. She's also really taught the children how to look after an animal and care for living things.

The most recent award we've won is for being a healthy school, which I'm really proud of. The accreditation for that is really hard. It wasn't just about children eating healthily, it was about mental health and children being happy and being able to express themselves too.

We are very big on our school dinners. We employ our own chef, maths is linked to how much money they'll spend and what prices they'll set. So it makes it really real, and that way of teaching creatively has grown and grown. Of course, sometimes it goes horribly wrong! But there is a trust in teachers that they can be inventive.

CHILDREN LEARN BEST IF THEY'RE REALLY MOTIVATED AND EXCITED ABOUT WHAT IS GOING ON

There is a really lovely relationship between my oldest children and youngest children. The elder ones are called shepherds and the younger ones are sheep, and they are paired up when a child gets a place at the school. That sense of being a role model is really beneficial for the older ones.

As lots of schools do, we have music, dance and drama teachers come in, but we have professionals rather than full-time teachers. So our music teacher is a real musician and he'll show the pupils scores he's written or a video of his which is quite unusual, and part of their job is to educate the children. It's not just about serving meals; they work in the classroom too. Similarly, we have a gardener who helps the children grow vegetables, which are used in the school dinners.

We have parent coordinators who are very proactive about making links with the local community. For instance, [chef] Tom Aikens has been in a couple of times through a connection with one of the parents. Some of our children are quite affluent, but it's a state school, so some aren't. Bringing someone like Tom in really gives those children the opportunity to have aspirations and experiences they wouldn't otherwise have.

What I love most about my job nowadays is watching teachers grow; it's so rewarding."

MICHAEL CHARALAMBOUS, FOUNDER OF CHELSEA HAIR SALON NYUMBA, ON THE WELCOMING ETHOS BEHIND HIS BRAND

Michael Charalambous

“WE MOVED HERE FOUR YEARS AGO from Mount Street, but our brand has been around for 30 years. When people come to visit London, Sloane Square is one of the places they want to visit. We’re so close to Sloane Street and we have great shopping. I also love the buildings and how clean the streets are.

I LIVE OFF THE KING’S ROAD myself. I remember seeing this building [1 Sloane Square] when I was a kid and thinking I would love to have an interior design shop or hair salon here one day.

THE SALON HAS GOT A VERY HOMELY and very African vibe. I am a person who likes to mix colour, and I’ve used flamingoes, chickens, parrots and an eagle in our interiors in the salon. The sign saying ‘Karibu’ means ‘welcome to my house’ in Swahili. The shells are from Zanzibar and all the fish are handprinted by kids from charities we support in Tanzania. I don’t believe in pictures of hair everywhere because I think it intimidates people.

YOU CAN FIND MY WORK ON INSTAGRAM, though, if you want to, and clients have actually found us before through Instagram, which is wonderful. Hair and beauty are so important because clothes are transient, but your hair is the only thing you wear all the time.

I AM HERE 12 HOURS A DAY, six days a week. Often here in the salon, but I might also be out at a shoot or doing a wedding. We also do an out-of-salon service, which is available 24/7 if a client wants privacy in their home.

MY WIFE GIULIA ZUCCAROLI IS THE HEAD COLOURIST in the salon, and she’s done fabulous women including the likes of Sophia Loren, the Fendi sisters, Princess Madeleine of Sweden, Claudia Winkleman and Saffron Aldridge. She is known as the colour surgeon, because she’s the best at doing colour changes and corrections.

MY STAFF ARE LIKE A FAMILY. We had a Christmas party in Paris last year. We have our first Nyumba wedding this year, too, between a girl who came originally from Romania and a guy from Italy. The wedding is in Puglia, so I'm closing the salon for two days so that all the staff can join them.

I THINK WE SHOULD TRY TO MAKE THE BEST OF WHO EACH PERSON IS. I don't want my staff to be like me, and I don't want to be like them.

I HAVE A SOFT SPOT FOR CHILDREN who come from underprivileged families, because I was actually a very privileged kid growing up in Africa, but we were suddenly kicked out and had our money frozen. We lost everything and went from having nannies, drivers and cooks to having nothing.

BECAUSE I WENT FROM BEING PRIVILEGED TO UNPRIVILEGED, I had to look after myself and I learnt things the hard way. So what I'm doing now is trying to find jobs for people who come here, whether they've come from the north or all the way from Sri Lanka.

WE HAVE A PARTNERSHIP WITH THE BOTANIST, whereby clients can order food from the restaurant to enjoy in our premises. We are recommending customers to Tom Davies opposite us, which is where I get my glasses from myself. If a client wants to treat me, I like to go next door to The Botanist or to Ritorno further down the King's Road, which is my favourite restaurant in London.

TO RELAX I LIKE TO SPEND TIME WITH MY SON.

I speak to him like an adult, and I love to talk and joke with him. I want him to be a man of the world, have perfect manners and be London's next mayor one day. He says he wants to be president of America, so I love his ambition!"

Chelsea IN BLOOM

FOR THE THIRTEENTH YEAR
CHELSEA RETAILERS EMBRACED
THE SPIRIT OF THE FLOWER SHOW
TO CREATE WONDERFUL VIBRANCY
ON OUR STREETS

Floral / Chelsea in Bloom

AS WITH THE FAMOUS FLOWER SHOW, the annual Chelsea in Bloom competition returned bigger and better than ever this year with 65 entrants filling their windows and shopfronts with creative and colourful displays of fresh blooms.

The Summer of Love theme saw participants take inspiration from the Royal Wedding and the cultural revolution of the Sixties and Seventies to create their displays, enlivening everywhere from the King's Road and Duke of York Square, to Sloane Square, Pavilion Road and Sloane Street with fresh flowers.

Produced by Cadogan in association with the Royal Horticultural Society, the Chelsea in Bloom competition also saw breath-taking floral masterpieces pop-up for the week of May 21 - 26. Florist All For Love London created a stunning pair of swans on Sloane Street, a floral engagement ring on Pavilion Road and a floral heart arch on Sloane Square, while Maison de Fleurs created the spectacular interactive heart in Duke of York Square.

Visitors to the area toured the displays on foot with maps or complimentary rickshaw rides, and were able to enjoy al fresco drinks at The Botanist's pop-up Seedlip bar in the middle of beautiful Sloane Square.

Winners of the highly coveted prizes were announced midweek with Monica Vinader taking Best Floral Display, Lucas Hugh winning the Innovation award and Harry's Dolce Vita claiming both People's Champion and a Highly Commended honour.

Also highly praised at the 13th annual awards with Gold accolades were Dubarry, Hamptons International, Hugo Boss, Emma Hope, Oliver Peoples, Marshall Wace, Hackett, Rabbit, Wulf & Lamb, Kiki McDonough, Poetry, Salon Sloane, Sarah Chapman Skinesis, Moyses Stevens, The Cloud Boutique, Kiehl's Since 1851 and 11 Cadogan Gardens.

The giant 'LOVE' sign on Sloane Square raised over £800 for charity. Visitors were encouraged to pick a beautiful flower and make a donation to Sentebale, a charity founded by Prince Harry to help vulnerable children build a brighter future. Thank you to all those who contributed.

FELLOW RETAILERS, FRIENDS
AND CHELSEA IN BLOOM
COMPETITORS SARAH
CHAPMAN AND TOM DAVIES
TELL CALLY SQUIRES ABOUT
THE INSPIRATION BEHIND THEIR DISPLAYS AND THEIR FRIENDLY RIVALRY

SARAH:

“WE OPENED SKINESIS IN THE WEEK OF CHELSEA IN BLOOM, so it’s quite a special thing for us now. We literally still had the builders in while the florists were working downstairs.

This year we brainstormed with our florist, Petal to the Metal, on how the theme could relate to us.

Initially we were thinking of love in terms of pairs, and what skincare pairs together like a cleanser and a moisturiser. Then we thought about going down the wedding route with bridal prep, but beige flowers wouldn’t make as big of an impact. We considered the hippie vibe too, and having a swing in the window, but it just didn’t relate to skincare.

We wanted it to be interactive, and the final concept came from the idea of loving yourself and female empowerment. People have been able to write messages to their 13-year-old selves and hang them on the display. We also asked people who couldn’t make it here to write their messages on our Instagram, and we hung those up outside.

When you read them all, the message is really positive and we’ll definitely keep them afterwards. And one person will win a year’s supply of our overnight facial.

In terms of the flowers, our products have essential oils in them such as jasmine, so we wanted to include those in our display.

We also have a chainmail curtain downstairs in the clinic, so we brought an element of the shop outside with the Parisian-inspired love lock bridge. We started putting some padlocks on ourselves, but people have been adding their own!

There are other little details - for instance the paint used to coat the metal structure of the dressing table was painted in exactly the same pantone as the shop.

We have a bit of friendly competition going on with Tom so every year we try and go bigger and better to beat each other! One year we might do something together that links our two stores!”

TOM:

“MY IDEA FOR THE THEME WAS YOUNG LOVE. For me personally that meant sitting in a meadow with wildflowers all round, having just graduated from university, with my whole life

The finishing touches being put on the Tom Davies window; and Union Jack sunglasses still in front of me. I just remember thinking that I couldn't imagine being any happier in that moment.

We tried to recreate it by making a meadow in the window with wildflowers and a big wicker heart made from clematis branches. I wanted it to be inside and outside the shop, and really draw people in.

My original idea was to do something that would completely and utterly standout. Looking at the swinging Sixties era, I wanted to do hemp plants and lots of poppies, symbolising marijuana and heroin, with psychedelic colours and hippie music playing. We found out we needed a £400 licence to grow hemp, which was fine, but couldn't get it approved as we are within 200m of a school. Part of me would have loved to have had someone ransacking the shop thinking it was real marijuana - and then a picture of me in the Daily Mail, with the headline Chelsea in Gloom!

Heart-shaped glasses have been a staple of my collection for a while, but for Chelsea in Bloom I made five pairs specially with Union Jacks on them, as a nod to the Royal Wedding. They actually all sold on the first day before the judging, so were no longer in the window! But we also made some special pairs in acetate, with daisies and other flowers that were used in the display, on the sunglass frames.

"THERE IS A FRIENDLY RIVALRY GOING ON WITH A LOT OF THE SMALLER STORES WHERE THE OWNER IS REALLY INVOLVED"

What was nice is that the flowers from our window were potted, and as my garden is a mud patch I asked Moyses Stevens to plant what was left for me at home afterwards.

There is a friendly rivalry going on with a lot of the smaller stores where the owner is really involved. With Sarah, the first year we entered we got Silver and she got Best Floral Display. So last year we were really in it to win it, and we got the Innovation award. Sarah had an idea that we could do something together next year. Although I think I might miss the rivalry if we do that!

I have five stores now, but Sloane Square is my favourite. Things like Chelsea in Bloom, which Cadogan organises, make it such a great place to be. You don't have that sense of community anywhere else, and that is why so many people take part."

ACCLAIMED CHEF TOM AIKENS SHARES SOME OF HIS FAVOURITE DISHES FROM HIS CALE STREET RESTAURANT, TOM'S KITCHEN

On a plate

Since opening his flagship brasserie opposite Chelsea Green in 2006, Tom Aikens and his team have been serving refined British comfort food to local gastronomes. After closing for two months for an extensive renovation, Tom's Kitchen is back open, with a revived menu honouring seasonal ingredients – offering elegant small plates and large sharing dishes, alongside its now-famous classics.

STARTER

HERITAGE BEET CARPACCIO, ORANGES, BEET YOGHURT, BEET DRESSING

“You know it’s properly summer time when beetroot hits the menu – and this dish really encompasses all the joys of the longer, warmer days. It’s colourful and packed full of flavour; the different varieties give earthy and sweet flavours, which combined with the dill and citrus make for a really refreshing plate of food.”

MAIN

MONKFISH TAIL, ORANGE AND BROCCOLI SALTY FINGERS, SEA BEET

"This super-light and fresh dish is a combination of perfectly cooked monkfish with a real taste of the sea from the sea vegetables we have chosen. We serve it with broccoli and orange, which is a delicious flavour combination. I love the way the orange oil adds a delicacy to this dish in contrast to the heavier sauces that often accompany monkfish."

DESSERT

BANANA TATIN, BANANA ICE CREAM

"I love a classic dessert, and this banana Tatin is exactly that – but with a Tom's Kitchen twist. Normally associated with apples and pears, we've chosen to use bananas for their deep sweetness and the banoffee-like flavour you get when they're cooked in the caramel. They are topped with flaky yet chewy pastry, before going into the oven and straight out to our guests. This is made all the better when eaten with our banana ice cream – my all-time favourite!"

My Chelsea / Yulia Rorstrom

SLOANE SQUARE / JUNE 2018

YULIA RORSTROM
FOUNDER OF BLOW-DRY BAR
DUCK & DRY ON THE KING'S ROAD

WHAT DO YOU LOVE ABOUT LIVING IN CHELSEA?

I like the village feel of the area. I have my local coffee shop and Saturday farmers' market on Pimlico Road as well as great restaurants and shopping on my doorstep. But at the same time, I can find peace and quiet in all the beautiful squares.

AND WORKING IN CHELSEA?

A very short commute! Also getting to know our clients and fellow Chelsea residents.

WHAT MAKES DUCK & DRY SPECIAL?

We specialise in hair styling – blow-dries and up-dos. Our clients trust us to create beautiful hair. We also provide a different environment from traditional salons. It's all about having fun in a cool and buzzy atmosphere with curated music lists, prosecco bar and in-store events.

WHAT'S THE SALON'S MOST POPULAR TREATMENT?

Soft and effortless waves have been the most requested style in the last year. We have a few variations, from High Tide Waves, where more is more, to Hot Off the Tong, with more definition. And Beach Locks is a sexier, tousled take on the look.

WHAT IS CHELSEA'S BEST-KEPT SECRET?

The beautiful grounds of the Royal Hospital Chelsea are tucked away and feel very secluded. I love taking my children there for walks.

WHAT IS YOUR FAVOURITE ... HAIR PRODUCT?

We launched our own product range a year ago. I absolutely love our OOMPH! Dry Volume & Texture Spray. It instantly creates that 'just-out-of-bed' look.

LOCAL RESTAURANT?

I like Eight Over Eight for its buzzy atmosphere

and the best Pad Thai in town, Chicama for amazing pisco sours and pretty terrace, and Medlar for exceptional food and service.

GALLERY?

Saatchi Gallery, with its constantly changing exhibitions and interesting events.
