Adam Handling Chelsea

Sloane Street
www.adamhandlingchelsea.co.uk

Dress to impress at one of London's most glamorous New Year's Eve celebrations, hosted by award-winning chef, Adam Handling. For £450pp, the most delicious bowl food, free flowing champagne, cocktails and a midnight espresso martini will accompany live music and entertainment to ensure you have a luxurious start to the New Year. Adam Handling's famous "Snacks", including cheese and truffle doughnuts; cod caviar and crème fraîche and ox cheese croquettes will awaken your taste buds in preparation for burnt beef and artichokes; scallop, lobster and baby vegetables as well as cod with buttered caviar and champagne to see 2019 out in true style.

...however fear not if venturing out isn't for you and you'll be hosting a NYE celebration at home; as the following recipe is sure to serve as a deliciously indulgent dinner for your guests alongside a glass or two of champagne.

You can thank local butcher, Provenance, for this 'Roast Rib of 65-day aged Beef, Celeriac and Potato Dauphinoise, Salt baked Shallots, Red wine and Veal Jus' dish, who have ensured that all the ingredients can be picked up locally, to save you from navigating the jam-packed alleys of the supermarket.

Ingredients

To serve 8 people:

- 2.4kg Rolled Rib of Grass-fed Beef

For the Shallots:

- 8 Echalion Shallots
- 500g Coarse Salt
- 1 Lemon (juice and zest)
- Bunch of Thyme
- Olive Oil

For the Dauphinoise:

- 1 Large Celeriac
- 3 Medium Potatoes
- 250ml Milk
- 250ml Double Cream
- 3 Cloves of Garlic (crushed)
- 1 Bay Leaf
- Bunch of Thyme
- 100g Butter

For the Sauce:

- 1 pack of True Foods Veal Jus (available at Provenance)
- 250ml Red Wine
- 50g Unsalted Butter

Method

1. For the Beef, remove the meat from the fridge at least two hours before prep and cooking. Heat the oven to 180°C and season the beef generously with salt and pepper. Heat oil on a large pan, on a high heat and sear the beef all over until it has good colour. Place the beef in the oven and roast, depending on preference; 1 hour 20 minutes (for medium) or 1 hour 5 minutes (for medium rare). Then leave to rest for 30 minutes before carving.

2. For the shallots, pour the salt into a bowl and combine with the lemon zest, 2 tablespoons of the lemon juice as well as the thyme. Add enough oil to give the mixture the consistency of wet sand (approximately 2tbsp). Place an even layer of half the salt mix in a baking tray on top of the salt, then cover with the rest of the mixture. Bake the shallots until very soft to touch - about 50 minutes.

3. For the delicious Dauphinoise; in a saucepan place the milk, cream, butter, bay leaf, thyme and garlic and a generous amount of seasoning. Bring to the boil and simmer for 10 minutes. Slice the potatoes and celeriac 2-3mm thick and layer in a greased baking dish; make sure to layer nicely for a smart finish. Then, pour the strained mixture over the vegetables. Place a layer of greaseproof paper over the top and cover dish in tin foil, then bake in the oven at 180°C for 1 hour 30 minutes. Remove the cover for the last half an hour to give some colour on top.

4. For the sauce, take a small saucepan and put on a medium-high heat. Add the red wine, and simmer until it has reduced by half. Add the veal jus and reduce a little further, season with salt and pepper and, just before serving, whisk in a little butter to thicken and enrich the flavor of the sauce.

5. Serve and enjoy with something delicious to drink. Try Pavilion Wine just next door one of their excellent recommendations.
