'Illuminati'

04 to 13 Nov – Box Galleries
www.boxgalleries.com

A celebration of the vivacity and rebellion of 1970s Punk, transporting visitors to the backstage world of Punk through witty and high-octane works of the artist, Illuminati Neon. Free to visit, discover the power of punk and the tartan-clad kids that were so synonymous with the King's Road.

Philip Colbert: Lobsteropolis

Now until 29 Nov - Saatchi Gallery
www.saatchigallery.com

The UK's largest ever showcase of Philip Colbert's creativity, taking audiences through an odyssey of never before seen monumental works, exploring contemporary culture and mass consumerism. Booking is essential and the exhibition can be viewed in the gallery space, or digitally through the eyes of Colbert's robot lobster, his materialistic alter-ego.

'Playwright's Podcast'

Available online – Royal Court Theatre
www.royalcourttheatre.com

Discover the stories of some of the world's leading playwrights as Simon Stephens, a playwright himself, discusses their lives, their work and their relationships with the Royal Court. Perfect for those looking for a stay-at-home activity.

A Hundred Years of Veterans' Mental Health

04 Nov – National Army Museum
www.nam.ac.uk

An exclusive virtual screening of 'Combat Stress 100'. Through over 60 overwhelmingly personal interviews with veterans, this film captures the voices of veterans with post-traumatic stress disorder in the hope that the public will better understand PTSD and other mental health conditions experienced by some who serve on the front line.

Best of British Baking

05 & 21 Nov – Bread Ahead
www.breadahead.com

Master the art of a quintessential British tea. Book your place to perfect the essentials which includes a classic white tin loaf – the base of a brilliant sandwich, and fruit laden tea cakes and scones for those with a sweet tooth.

'Make Opera Live Again'

08 Nov – Cadogan Hall
www.cadoganhall.com

A socially distanced celebration of live opera works, carefully chosen to excite and satisfy after a summer of shut doors. Join international star, Helena Dix, as she returns to the stage with the Chelsea Opera Group to perform your much-missed favourites.

JR: Chronicles

13 Nov to 09 Feb '21 – Saatchi Gallery
www.saatchigallery.com

Saatchi Gallery opens its doors this month to the largest solo museum exhibition to date of French artist, JR. This must-see exhibition traces his career from early documentation of graffiti artists in Paris as a teenager, to his large-scale architecture interventions from across the globe and is an exclusive opportunity to follow the story of one of today's most influential contemporary artists.

Georgia Cecile

15 Nov – 606 Club
www.606club.co.uk

Tipped as 'One to Watch' by BBC Music, this performance, part of London Jazz Festival, is a must-book. Her music captures inspiration from Burt Bacharach, John Barry and Marvin Hamlisch whilst wearing her jazz credentials proudly on her sleeve.

Meet the locals

In Conversation with Olivia von Halle

In an occasional new series, we meet the faces behind your favourite places.

Olivia Von Halle founded her eponymous label in 2011, selling her coveted nightwear from Pavilion Road. 2020 saw a renaissance of luxury loungewear and so we were thrilled to catch up with Olivia, the queen of loungewear herself.

How did you spend lockdown? – Where were you? How did you spend your days?

I'm a country girl at heart and was terrified about being locked down in London! We went to my parents' farm in Kent about a week before lockdown started and spent 3 months down there. Other family members joined us so there were 11 of us ranging from 4 months to 90 years old. It was a weird time, there was so much about it that I loved and so much that was incredibly hard. Our business was booming and my husband and I ran that remotely while also looking after our two young sons (aged 1 and 4), our dog and two horses. I have never been so fit in my life! Initially, I found it absolutely exhausting looking after my two boys without any help but now when I look back, that time that I had with them was the most special part of it. We were so busy with the business and our kids we didn't have time for much else—going on an extremely long walk on one's own was considered the lap of luxury!

How has this year affected your creativity and how have you found new inspiration?

It's been back to basics in some ways; delving into our archives, as we always do, for each season's research, and business-wise, having the time to refine our offerings, to think about what we offer, who we sell to, and what Olivia von Halle stands for as a brand! I would give it all for our life as before, but we've been incredibly fortunate to have seen a boom in sales and to have a product that adds flair for days that feel the same.

Who has most inspired you in the way they have faced the challenges from this year?

My team have really inspired me—some of them I haven't seen for 6 months but they have all been plugging away at home and working so hard—I have found the people who are introverts have come up with their best work and have massively benefitted from being away from the hustle and bustle of the studio. It has made me completely reimagine the way that we work together and I don't see a world in which everyone comes to the office every day—it isn't good for people, or for the planet.

Aside from your beautiful store on Pavilion Road, where would you say are your top three Chelsea neighbourhood spots?

1. Sarah Chapman for the best facials in the business - once you have had one of hers you will never look back. They're my favourite gift to give people at the moment, so spoiling.
2. Fresh Aussie breakfast at Granger and Co on Pavilion Rd
3. A mooch around Papersmiths on Pavilion Rd - the most beautiful stationery, cards and pens.

We heard your latest collection has just landed in store, can you tell us a little bit about it?

I hope the title is the clue to this one; it's all about the glamour of Old Hollywood, inspired by those starlets who really made a statement with the way they dressed. There were so many trailblazing women on the screen then—like Dolores del Río and Marlene Dietrich—who lived lives of real glamour, on and off-screen. It's our ode to them, and their at-home way of dressing, which was every inch the spectacle as seen on the forty-foot screen. Especially glamorous are luxury silk velvet devoré pyjama sets, or floral-printed silk full-length robes; along with the Lilibet, our first scarf, that also makes an especially chic face-covering!

So tell us, what exciting plans have you been working on for 2021?

I cannot wait for our Olivia von Halle house slippers—in velvet, and so richly-embellished. They're ludicrously comfortable.

And finally, have you got any advice for lockdown 2.0?

Keep in touch with friends and family—seeing them and my team regularly, even if it is online, keeps me buoyed! I find it comforting and familiar. Otherwise, my idea of at-home luxury is spending time in the bath (I'm a bit of an obsessive). So I'll be unwinding with generous swills of Olverum bath oil and Epsom salts in lengthy, luxurious baths, before rolling in bed with eye mask and pyjamas on.
