Sunday Lunch in Chelsea

---

*Whilst another summer might be fading into the distance, the colder weather means one thing only – the Sunday
lunch is back.*

*The Great British tradition can't be trumped and from glorious Yorkshire Puds to gravy better-than-your-Grandmothers, Chelsea's neighbourhood dining spots have perfected our favourite meal of the week. For when rolling home after is the only option, here are the best Sunday
Roasts on your doorstep.*

The Cadogan Arms

---

298 King's Road, London SW3 5UG

With a two-Michelin starred chef at the helm, we'd expect nothing less than Sunday-lunch perfection. From Longhorn Sirloin with a bone marrow sauce to a Half Herb-Fed Chicken with brioche and truffle stuffing, this is a levelled-up Roast Lunch. Definitely order the Cauliflower Cheese and definitely take a look at their extensive wine menu for the ideal red-wine pairing. And adding to the background buzz, enjoy live jazz every Sunday afternoon from 4.30pm.

No. Fifty Cheyne

50 Cheyne Walk, London SW3 5LR

For a gloriously civilized Sunday lunch, No. Fifty Cheyne is a must-book. With a menu featuring the classics, there is also a selection of limited-edition options to choose from, from ‘Scottish Lobster and Aged Beef Fillet’ to ‘French black legged chicken’, all with the finest of trimmings including hispi cabbage and the crispiest-on-the-outside and fluffiest-on-on-the-inside roast potatoes. If there’s space, finish off with a selection of their fine British cheese – the pear chutney and fresh honeycomb accompaniment is exceptional. And if you can take your eyes away from the food for just a moment, admire the picturesque views that overlook Cheyne Gardens and the River Thames.

The Surprise

6 Christchurch Terrace, London SW3 4AJ

With the puffiest Yorkshire Puddings you have ever seen, The Surprise really are a dab-hand at the English classic – upholding their position as a local favourite since 1853! Expect a warm welcome from the friendliest team and a sumptuous setting with armchairs that are perfect for slow Sunday afternoons. A delicious menu has been designed to showcase the very best of British produce too. Order the Pork Belly – the crackling is the crispiest you will find.

The Phene

9 Phene Street, London SW3 5NY

For the Sunday lunch connoisseur, this is a must-visit with a Michelin-trained team in the kitchen – with great options for vegans and coeliacs. The rosemary roast potatoes are tough to beat but the gravy is the real showstopper and both are best enjoyed with a large glass of Bordeaux. Finish off with another British classic, Sticky Toffee Pudding... then roll home.

The Cross Keys

1 Lawrence Street, London SW3 5NB

Just off the beaten track, The Cross Keys is one of Chelsea's oldest institutions, open since 1708, boasting sumptuous leather clad booths perfect for a long Sunday lunch. Blow away the cobwebs with one of their signature Bloody Marys, spiced to your preference, followed by one of the classics accompanied with supersized spuds and next-level trimmings. To top it off, your four-legged friends are also welcome – just no licking the plates!

COMPLIMENTARY HOMEMADE MARSHMALLOW TOPPING AT KNOOPS

Knoops, 69 King's Road
knoops.co.uk

---

The Knoops concept is based around a carefully curated menu of different percentage chocolates, with something to suit every taste and mood. We find joy in helping you to discover your perfect chocolate drink, and encourage experimentation with different % chocolates and flavours in a process we call 'Knoopology'.

This process is simple; choose your chocolate %, milk, and extra flavours like sea salt, orange zest or chilli to be made into a hot chocolate, milkshake or iced chocolate. Craft your drink at home using luxury real chocolate flakes and makers, or visit us in store to have yours prepared by our Knoopologists.

As a valued member of Cadogan Concierge, Knoops would like to offer a free marshmallow topping with any of their chocolate drinks. Please quote 'Cadogan VIP' in store to redeem your offer.

Ts&Cs: This offer is only redeemable at the Knoops Chelsea store until 31st October 2021. You can redeem a free marshmallow when you purchase any of their chocolate drinks.
