Empower - A Concert for International Women's Day

6 March, Cadogan Hall
cadoganhall.com

In celebration of International Women's Day, Vox Anima London presents EMPOWER. The centrepiece of the programme, under the baton of Erin Freeman, is Everyday Wonders: The Girl From Aleppo by Cecilia McDowall. This moving cantata tells the story of Nujeen Mustafa, a Kurdish teenager with cerebral palsy, and her harrowing journey from war-ravaged Aleppo to Germany. A range of other outstanding female composers are celebrated, including Hannah Rice, with the world premiere of her piece EM[POWER]?, commissioned by Vox Anima London for this concert.

International Women's Day Ride - KXU x NARS

Easter Feasts

The Easter Bank Holiday weekend is upon us. Here's where to enjoy the long weekend in Chelsea and indulge in a delicious Sunday lunch.

The Cadogan Arms

298 King's Road, London, SW3 5UG
thecadoganarms.london

Sunday lunch at the effortlessly cool King's Road favourite is not to be missed. Peruse the menu with one of their famed 'Bloody Classics' to hand, before diving into a selection of their starters, choosing from black pudding scotch egg and crispy lamb ribs amongst others. Feast on one of three roasts, rump of beef, herb-fed chicken with a brioche and herb stuffing or shoulder of lamb. Alternatively, go all-out and order the Sunday sharing board for the table, featuring each of the three glorious cuts and piles of trimmings: butter-glazed vegetables, potatoes, and the largest Yorkshire puddings in the borough. Challenge accepted.

The LaLee

75 Sloane Street, London, SW1X 9SG
thelalee.co.uk

This elegant Sloane Street dining room is a stylish spot on your doorstep to while away your Sunday afternoons. Start with a twice baked Montgomerie cheese soufflé, before choosing from roast sirloin of beef or roast pork belly, both accompanied by piles of crispy roast potatoes and seasonal vegetables. For those who don't eat meat, the roasted cod and mashed potato or cauliflower risotto offer a deliciously indulgent alternative to traditional options. Make sure you end on a sweet note, the Chaussons aux Pommes to share is a favourite amongst regulars – after all, Sundays are for savouring.

Cantinetta Antinori

4 Harriet Street, London, SW1X 9JR
cantinetta-antinori.uk

For a Sunday Roast, the Italian way, head to Cantinetta Antinori. Indulge in Roasted black angus beef in a red wine jus, accompanied by a delightful array of roasted vegetables, crispy potatoes and toasted focaccia bread whilst sipping on a glass of something delicious chosen from the curation available of the finest Antinori wines. Finish with their pistachio tiramisu, which is not only light and delicious, but produced tableside, and will add a touch a theatrical magic to the end of your meal.

The Chelsea Pig

35 Old Church Street, London, SW3 5BS
thechelseapig.co.uk

Head chef Fionnan Flood has mastered traditional British cuisine which is why Sunday lunch at The Chelsea Pig is so popular – not least because of the welcome from Derek the Diver on arrival (if you know, you know). Choose from four cuts - pork belly complete with a toffee apple sauce; beef rib-eye, Sutton Hoo chicken or the cauliflower steak – all of which come perfectly executed with trimmings including buttery carrots, savoy cabbage, crispy roasties and a Yorkshire pudding. To finish? Nothing screams Easter indulgence more than the half-baked chocolate cheesecake to share.

No. Fifty Cheyne

50 Cheyne Walk, London, SW3 5LR
fiftycheyne.com

Jason Atherton protégé, Iain Smith sits at the helm and promises a quintessentially British Sunday Roast with beautiful views overlooking the iconic River Thames. Traditionalists can choose from succulent roasted herb Cumbrian chicken and 40-day-aged sirloin beef, with a limited-edition 100 day-aged, belted Galloway beef rib available on a first-come, first-served basis, said to be so tender, the recommendation is to try without gravy. Or, for something different, order from The Grill - try the Cornish Dover Sole or the Surf & Turf, making sure to order several sides where the menu really shines. We know you will thank yourself for trying the cauliflower and leek cheese.

Rabbit

172 King's Road, London, SW3 4UP
rabbit-restaurant.com

Time Out voted the Gladwin brothers' Rabbit restaurant one of the best British restaurants in London. It's easy to see why on Sundays, with a dedicated menu that boasts roast beef sirloin, slow roasted pork shoulder and leg of lamb – all sustainably sourced from their biodynamic West Sussex farm and its neighbouring establishments. There's also a confit aubergine and all roasts come with the favourite trimmings of roast potatoes, Yorkshire Pudding and seasonal vegetables.

The Surprise

6 Christchurch Terrace, London, SW3 4AJ
thesurprise-chelsea.co.uk

Settle in for a traditional Sunday roast at this classic Chelsea establishment. Starters include a truffled mushroom soup, raclette cheese tart and pork belly croquettes, wonderful to enjoy before tucking into a main of 38-day aged sirloin, Somerset leg of lamb, Devonshire chicken breast or their vegetable wellington, all accompanied by the perfect Sunday trimmings. To satisfy your sweet tooth, finish your feast with the sticky toffee pudding, the mulled english pear tartlet or the decadent belgian chocolate brownie.
